

BRUTAL NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

Pullman Porter W. H. Wallace
Outraged an Old Lady.

LA JUNTA SCENE OF CRIME.

The Flood Was Strong Up to a Telegraph Pole and Then Riddled With Bullets.

La Junta, Colo., March 25.—W. H. Wallace, a negro sleeping car porter, was lynched at 8 o'clock tonight in a corner of the courthouse square, being hanged to an electric light pole by a howling mob of 4,000 people, who had been hunting for him all day. After the hanging the body of the negro was riddled with bullets. Wallace had been kept out of town all day by Sheriff Farr in an attempt to save him from the mob. The prisoner made no resistance to the lynching, and died protesting his innocence.

Mrs. Henrietta H. Miller, a gray-haired woman, aged 67, going from Los Angeles, Cal., to Denver, to visit relatives, was brutally assaulted in the Santa Fe railroad yards here between 9 and 11 o'clock last night by Wallace. The assault was one of the most brutal crimes ever committed in the vicinity, and the aged victim was left for dead in an isolated section of the city by her fiendish assailant.

Mrs. Miller arrived last night in a tourist car on train No. 2, known as the California limited, running between Los Angeles and Chicago. The train arrived here at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Miller got off the train intending to leave a negro in a Pullman porter's uniform, she asked him where the Denver sleeper was. He said he would show her the car, and she walked with him through the railroad yards for a considerable distance. Finally she told her companion she would go back to the depot. He struck her on the head with his fist, felling her, partly stunned, and then carried her to an ice house nearby.

As soon as Mrs. Miller had recovered somewhat she began to struggle violently in her efforts to release herself. The negro struck her several times on the head, and then, to stop any possible outcry, placed his fingers upon her throat, until she ceased her struggling and lay like one dead.

About 12 o'clock Mrs. Miller recovered consciousness. She was stiff with cold, and so badly wounded that she could hardly walk. She could not utter a sound above a whisper, so cruelly had she been choked. She crawled back to the depot, following the railroad tracks so that she might not become lost.

Reaching the long depot platform, she fell in a swoon and lay there when discovered by one of the railroad men. She was picked up and carried into the depot and restoratives hastily applied. The police were immediately notified and doctors summoned.

Under the skillful treatment of the physicians Mrs. Miller soon recovered enough to tell the awful story of her assault. She gave a minute description of her assailant. This description was recognized by the railroad men as fitting W. H. Wallace, a Pullman car porter, who was between Denver and La Junta, stopping in this city from 9:45 at night, when he arrived, until noon the next day.

The bloodhounds from Canyon City were put on the trail of the brute. After sniffing the ground a few minutes the leader gave a low bark and started off at a rapid gait. The trail led directly to the Pullman car, where Porter Wallace was arrested.

Fearing a lynching, Sheriff Farr decided to take the negro to Pueblo. When his intention became known, however, the railroad employees declared that he could not travel by rail, as they would refuse to operate a train out of La Junta with Wallace on board. The sheriff placed his prisoner in a carriage and started for Sugar City, on the Missouri Pacific, twenty miles north.

At that place he was too late to catch the train for Pueblo, and then decided to drive through. Meantime an armed party had left La Junta to overtake the sheriff and prisoner. The carriage was finally overhauled at Patterson hollow, midway between Rocky Ford and Manzanola.

Sheriff Farr made no resistance, and Wallace did not ask mercy. The carriage was turned back towards La Junta. Passing through Rocky Ford the mob was joined by 500 men of that town. La Junta was reached about 7 o'clock this evening, where thousands of men, women and children, many from the surrounding country, awaited them.

The peace element endeavored to stop the possible lynching, and a committee consisting of Robert Patterson, banker; Dr. Fleming, Charles Dearborn, county treasurer, and other prominent citizens asked the privilege of trying to get from Wallace a confession.

This was granted, and the negro was taken into the courthouse. After an hour or so the word went out that the courthouse doors were locked and that the committee would try to prevent a lynching. Immediately pandemonium reigned. Stones were hurled at the building till every window was broken.

Then, with a telegraph pole for a battering ram, the crowd broke in the doors, and Wallace was taken out. Mayor Fred A. Sabin made a speech to the crowd, counseling them to let the law take its course. He was listened to, but as soon as he finished the crowd moved down the street, dragging the negro by a rope.

A boy was sent up a telegraph pole with the rope. He was thrown over the side, and the end dropped into the crowd. A hundred hands grasped it, and in an instant the negro was in the air. Hardly had he climbed down out of danger when scores of pistols were drawn, and before the negro's body reached the top of the pole it was riddled with bullets and the man was dead.

At a late hour tonight the body had not been taken down. The coroner lives at Rocky Ford.

Sheriff Farr said tonight that Wallace steadfastly maintained his innocence, but the police declare that when he was arrested his car there was blood and gray hairs on his clothing and other evidence which satisfied them that he was the guilty man.

TWO FINE SPECIMENS Of Physical Manhood.

No form of athletic exercise demands such perfect physical conditions as prize fighting. Every muscle in the body must be fully developed and supplied, and the heart, lungs and stomach must be in perfect condition.

Whether we endorse prize-fighting or not, it is a very interesting study to know the manner by which men arrive at such physical perfection. James Jeffries, the present champion heavy-weight of the world, and the first and most important part of this training was to get the stomach in condition, and to keep the digestion absolutely perfect, so that every muscle would be at its highest capabilities.

This was not done by a secret patent medicine, but both of these great pugilists used a well known natural digestive tablet sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and composed of the digestive ferments which every stomach requires for healthy digestion.

Champion Jeffries says: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets prevent acidity, strengthen the stomach and insure perfect digestion. They keep a man in fine physical condition." Signer, James J. Jeffries, champion of the world.

The gallant fighter, Sharkey, says: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets remove all discomfort after eating. They rest the stomach and restore it to a healthy condition. I heartily recommend them." Signer, Thos. J. Sharkey.

The advantage of the daily use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is that they keep people well and ward off sickness and are equally valuable to well persons as to dyspeptics. Another advantage is that these tablets contain no cathartics, or poisons of any character, but simply digestive ferments which are found in every healthy stomach.

Large Monagas, who has assumed a leading part in the insurrectionary army, writes that he is certain that in another month the rebels will be victorious and change of government will take place at Caracas. The forces of Gen. Monagas now besiege Barcelona in the state of Bermudez, which is his native town, and where he is well known.

Gen. Monagas has been greatly augmented since he began operations in that district. The plan of this insurgent chief is to capture and hold Guantia, where there is a large coal supplies for the filibustering steamer Bolivar.

Gen. Monagas is well known in this city. His son, Antonio, who was secretary of the Venezuelan consulate in this city, is a colonel on his staff. Gen. Monagas has fought in many insurrections and it is said of him that he has never been captured.

The movement for the erection of the hotel was ended by the purchase of the site, 109 by 125 feet, by William K. Vanderbilt and William D. Sloan.

It is said $1,000,000 was paid for the site. The plan for the hotel was to erect thereon nothing but a high grade residence.

Story of a Pathetic Tragedy.

New York, March 26.—A most pathetic tragedy caused by an unhappy misunderstanding was revealed at the coroner's court at Colwyn Bay, says a London dispatch to the Herald.

On Monday a young man named David Richards missed a small box of money belonging to the shop of which he was manager. He said his sweetheart, Lillian Key, who was the only one who saw him put the box of money away, to restore it, thinking she had taken it.

She denied any knowledge of the box. He thereupon shot her dead, turned the revolver upon himself and killed himself, too. During the inquest on the two bodies, Richards' employer rubbed into the court holding up the missing box which had been the cause of the tragedy.

It had been found near the place where the unhappy murderer and suicide had said he placed it.

CANAL MEETING. City Council, Presidents and Attorneys Hold Important Session.

The city council as committee of the whole met yesterday afternoon with the presidents and attorneys of the canal companies, to discuss the burning, and at the same time, very moot question of how to get water into Utah lake and then get it down the Jordan river. This last involves the establishment of a permanent pumping plant at the mouth of the lake. President A. M. Cannon appealed to the city to be magnanimous. He held that without the necessary supply of water, Salt Lake valley people would be forced to abandon their farms, while if the city came to the rescue, these same people would be enabled to remain and be of material support to the city of Salt Lake.

Cannon called attention to the fact that the lake was now 6 1/2 inches lower than it was last year at this time. The cost of a suitable pumping plant might be between $20,000 and $40,000.

Councilmen Cottrell and Fernstrom advised prompt action by the city in joining with the canal companies, Fernstrom urging that the canal companies join with the city in quieting the title to waters now illegally cut off from the lake in Utah county. City Engineer Kelsey advised that the city expend no money either in pumping or dredging until this title matter had been settled. The whole matter was finally referred to the chairman of the committee on municipal laws, finance, irrigation and waterworks, the mayor, city engineer, city attorney, the president of the council and the presidents of the canal companies, with authority to act. This body will meet tomorrow at 3 p. m., and the council will also meet in special session so as to act immediately.
